HEATING RESISTOR TYPE FLUID FLOW RATE
MEASURING APPARATUS AND CONTROL APPARATUS FOR INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINE HAVING THE MEASURING APPARATUS

FIRST OFFICE ACTION

TITLE

Uncertainty exists as to the title of the invention since various titles have been presented in the numerous papers of the application.

DRAWINGS

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they do not include the reference sign "300" which is mentioned in the description.

Also, the drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they (Fig. 5) include the reference signs 201, 202, 210, 211, 213, 220, and 230 which are not mentioned in the description.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the Examiner, the Applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

CLAIMS

35 U.S.C. § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which the Applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 sets forth "a constant time period". Claim 2 makes reference to "the constant time period". However, claim 2 sets forth the time period as being after the start of engine rotation wherein claim 1 sets forth the time period as being from an instruction to start engine rotation. Thus, a contradiction exists.

35 U.S.C. § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over one having ordinary skill in the art.

With respect to independent claims 1, 3, and 5, as can be seen in the documents made of record at the time of this office action, a control apparatus for an internal combustion engine having a heating resistor type air flow rate measuring apparatus which flows a heating current through the heating resistor to heat the resistor and measure a flow rate of air sucked into the engine based on radiation of heat to sucked air is well known in the art.

However, what the cited documents don't explicitly set forth, and that which the Applicant's independent claims center on, is that the heating resistor is heated upon a lapse of a constant time period after instructing a start of rotation to the engine.

Nonetheless, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art that such a time period would be inherent in such teachings. The reasoning being that an “instruction to start engine rotation”, as claimed, would be the turning of the ignition key. From the time that the ignition key is turned until the starter starts to turn the motor over, the engine starts and the heating resistor activates, a time period, regardless how brief, will be present. Such a time period meets the time period as claimed by the Applicant.

With respect to dependent claims 2, 4, and 6, said claims set forth that the heating resistors are heated by way of a current supplied thereto. Supplying a current to a heating resistor to heat the resistor is, at a minimum, inherent. However, any of the cited documents clearly show such a feature.
